

Crash Victims Improving

On the road to recovery this week is Mrs. Marian Smart, 1222 Arlington avenue, who received 22 stitches in her leg following a crash on April 8 near Waveria which nearly demolished the Smarts' new 1950 Studebaker.

Maxwell Smart, husband of the injured woman, an accounting supervisor at Columbia Steel, received severe bruises of the chest and returned to work Monday of this week. The couple's daughter, Arline, 14 years old, received minor bruises in the spectacular three-vehicle crash. Jimmie Pauline Mathews, 14, of 1631 Cota avenue, a passenger in the Smart auto, received minor cuts and bruises.

Visiting the local family are Mrs. J. H. Smart, a sister-in-law, of Taft, and Mrs. J. C. Coleman, of Bakersfield, mother of the injured woman.

BEATTY'S FAMOUS PERFORMING ELEPHANTS. They'll do their routines tomorrow.

They're Here -- Elephants, Clowns Wild Animals, 'n Everything -- Gee!

Raised as if by the touch from a magic wand, a huge tent city housing the Clyde Beatty Circus will rise today and tomorrow on the vacant lot at 230th street and Western avenue.

Two performances featuring 700 persons will be given tomorrow, Friday, April 21, at 2:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. One of the may attractions of the famous circus are the pachyderms—elephants, favorites of kids young and old everywhere. The elephants with the Clyde Beatty Circus are considered the best trained in all spangland.

"Age cannot wither, nor custom stale her infinite variety," some ancient bard thus eulogized a lady of his acquaintance, but the phrase might well be applied to the great American institution, the Circus. In all the years that it has raised and lowered its "big top" from Florida to Oregon, and from Maine to California, age has not withered nor custom staled its appeal to youngsters of all ages.

Elephants look the same today as they did when P. T. Barnum swung around the country with the famous Jumbo, but there is a vast difference today in the way they are presented, for now each and every elephant must be an actor. Not only must they help build the "tented city" and stand on display in the menagerie, but they must also do their bit on the big show's program.

The big show -- and it is big, being one of America's two biggest shows, with over 700 people, which means that circus fans will have the opportunity to see many of the world's greatest circus attractions, headed as they are by Clyde Beatty, the most fearless wild animal trainer the world has ever known, and his death-defying wild animal displays.

CAMPAGNERS... Park Department crews this week began the annual job of spraying alleys and streets with fly-killing Lindane. Some residents mistaking purpose of spraying, raced crews to take in their trash containers to prevent them from being treated with the material.—Herald photo.

Storkatorials Fly Crews Hit Snag in Fight

The park department is encountering difficulties in its annual fly campaign.

It seems, according to C. W. Clemmer, Park Department foreman, that some householders are unaware of what the city is doing to hold down the summertime increase of flies.

Park crews, armed with high-pressure spray equipment and using Lindane, successor to DDT, are following garbage and can collecting crews to spray for home owners the containers in the alleys.

"Some of the homeowners are either unknowingly or deliberately hindering the campaign by running out to remove their trash containers before we have a chance to spray them," Clemmer said.

"The spray material we are using is endorsed by health authorities all over the country. There is no toxic effect in the manner in which we are using the material to spray cans, back fences, garage doors and other places in the alleys where flies
